Ten Interviewing Rules

by Carole Martin

Monster Contributing Writer

In the current job market, you'd better have your act together, or you won't stand a chance against the competition. Check yourself on these ten basic points before you go on that all-important interview.

1. Look sharp.

Before the interview, select your outfit. Depending on the industry and position, get out your best duds and check them over for spots and wrinkles. Even if the company has a casual environment, you don't want to look like you slept in your clothes. Above all, dress for confidence. If you feel good, others will respond to you accordingly.

2. Be on time.

Never arrive late to an interview. Allow extra time to arrive early in the vicinity, allowing for factors like getting lost. Enter the building 10 to 15 minutes before the interview.

3. Do your research.

Researching the company before the interview and learning as much as possible about its services, products, customers and competition will give you an edge in understanding and addressing the company's needs. The more you know about the company and what it stands for, the better chance you have of selling yourself. You also should find out about the company's culture to gain insight into your potential happiness on the job.

4. Be prepared.

Bring along a folder containing extra copies of your resume, a copy of your references and paper to take notes. You should also have questions prepared to ask at the end of the interview.

5. Show enthusiasm.

A firm handshake and plenty of eye contact demonstrate confidence. Speak distinctly in a confident voice, even though you may feel shaky.

6. Listen.

One of the most neglected interviewing skills is listening. Make sure you are not only listening, but also reading between the lines. Sometimes what is not said is just as important as what is said.

7. Answer the question asked.

Candidates often don't think about whether or not they actually are answering the questions asked by their interviewers. Make sure you understand what is being asked, and get further clarification if you are unsure.

8. Give specific examples.

One specific example of your background is worth 50 vague stories. Prepare your stories before the interview. Give examples that highlight your successes and uniqueness. Your past behavior can indicate your performance.

9. Ask questions.

Many interviewees don't ask questions and miss the opportunity to find out valuable information. Your questions indicate your interest in the company or job.

10. Follow up.

Whether it is through e-mail or regular mail, the follow-up is one more chance to remind the interviewer of all the valuable traits you bring to the job and company. You do not want to miss this last chance to market yourself.

It is important to appear confident and cool for the interview. One way to do that is to be prepared to the best of your ability. There is no way to predict what an interview holds; but by following these important rules, you will feel less anxious and will be ready to positively present yourself.

Employment

High school graduates may decide that they want to find full-time employment and start bringing home a regular paycheck. Certain things should be done before beginning the job hunt.

1. Discover your interests. Reflect on past part-time jobs, volunteer work and everyday tasks that are enjoyable.
2. Explore job options. Find out what types of jobs are available to high school graduates who have little to no training.
3. Conduct informational interviews. Sit down and talk to someone who is currently working in a job that might be of interest.
4. Network. Ask friends, family and neighbors if they have any connections to help find a job. This may be the best way to find employment, because the majority of jobs are not advertised.

With some of the initial work out of the way, it is time to start getting organized.

1. Write a resume. Be sure to stress education, part-time and seasonal jobs, clubs and awards.
2. Locate job openings. Use the following resources:
  - Local newspaper
  - Internet
  - Local library
  - Employment centers
  - Family, friends and neighbors.

3. Apply for a job. This usually means submitting a cover letter, resume and job application.
4. Prepare for the interview. Research the company and job before going on the interview. Also, rehearse some answers to possible interview questions.
5. Follow-up. Write a thank you note. This helps remind employers who you are and lets them know that you are still interested in the job.

Have a five-year plan. Students who choose employment as their post-high school option should have a five-year plan. This will ensure that they do not get trapped in a dead-end job. These students should also realize that they could go back to school anytime, even if it's only to take a course or two. High school counselors enjoy seeing former students and will be happy to provide information on educational opportunities.

Apprenticeships

An apprentice is an individual who learns a craft through classroom instruction and on-the-job training. Classes are taught by men and women who are skilled in that trade while on-the-job training is overseen by construction employers.

Apprenticeships are continuing education. They last three to five years, depending upon the trade, and include regular classroom training as well as on-the-job experience. Some apprentice programs provide an Associate Degree from a community college upon achieving journeyman status.

How do I get started?

1. Select the building trade program that you are interested in and would like to apply for. If you already know which program you are interested in, please proceed to Step 2. Building trade schools are more commonly referred to as “building trade apprenticeship programs.”
2. Determine if the building trade program is accepting applications at this time.

The College Application Process

1. College Applications

Completing a college application is the initial step to applying for a college or university. A majority of colleges and universities request that you complete their college application online; the college/university's application can be found on the specific school's website. Paper applications are discouraged.

Information requested on a college application include: your personal information, academic and career interests, questions concerning your extracurricular activities, work experiences and future plans. Remember, it is very important to be honest, thorough and concise on your application. Application fees range from $20 to $50.

2. Essays/Personal Statements

Some colleges/universities will ask you to write a personal statement or essay which they will read for content, organization, ability to answer questions, grammar and spelling. The essay/personal statement is an important piece to the application process, so be sure to do your best work.

3. Letters of Recommendation

Many colleges/universities require letters of recommendation from your teachers and counselors. Request your teacher/counselor letter through Naviance at least two weeks before you need the letter. Please complete the letter of recommendation resume/survey in Naviance then ask your teacher/counselor to write the letter in person or through email before you make the request through Naviance.

4. Transcripts

Colleges and universities will request a copy of your "official transcript" from your current high school. You will need to request transcripts through Naviance.

5. Final Touches

Review your online application before submitting it. Once you have followed the instructions on the application and have completed the application process, you need to wait to hear from the college/university if you have been accepted or not.

6. Housing

Once you have been accepted, be sure to reserve your on-campus housing as soon as possible. The earlier you reserve your housing, the better opportunity you have of getting your choice of living arrangements on campus.

7. Athletics

To be eligible to participate in college level athletics, you will need to be sure you have met the academic requirements established by the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association). You will need to register on the NCAA Clearinghouse website at www.eligibilitycenter.org. For more information on your eligibility for college level athletics, please contact the NCAA.

Net Price Calculators

The Net Price Calculator is a tool that students can use to estimate their “net price” to attend a particular college or university.

Net price is the difference between the “sticker” price (full cost) to attend a specific college, minus any grants and scholarships for which students may be eligible. Sticker price includes direct charges (tuition and fees, room and board) and indirect costs (books and supplies, transportation, and personal expenses).

Net Price Calculators can be found on the individual school’s website (such as the example below) OR through the two websites listed below.

www.collegeboard.com

<http://collegecost.ed.gov/netpricecenter.aspx>

Example of getting started on DePaul’s net Price Calculator:

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the DePaul University website. The browser's address bar shows the URL: <http://www.depaul.edu/admission-and-aid/financial-aid/managing-costs>. The website header includes the DePaul University logo and navigation tabs for ABOUT, ACADEMICS, ADMISSION & AID, STUDENT LIFE, ALUMNI & FRIENDS, and CAMPUS EVENTS. The main content area is titled "Net Price Calculator" and includes the following text: "DePaul's Net Price Calculator is designed to assist prospective undergraduate students and parents. It estimates your expected family contribution and need-based financial aid award. The estimate is based on a full-time freshman entering DePaul in the coming academic year. It will not provide accurate cost information or resource information for returning undergraduate or graduate students." A prominent blue button labeled "Use the Calculator" is centered on the page. Below this, a note states: "If you are a continuing undergraduate student or a graduate student, and you have questions about your costs or financial aid at DePaul, please contact the Office of Financial Aid at DePaul Central for assistance. We will be glad to be of service." The left sidebar contains a navigation menu with categories like "Admission & Aid", "Managing Costs", and "Financial Aid". The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the date and time as 11:01 AM on 8/31/2015.
